Food or filth, everywhere they walk! Cockroaches are the worst of the pests not only because they do not differentiate between food and filth. Their stinking bodies causes unpleasant odour and they leave dark stains on the surfaces they frequent. Diseases like dysentery, diarrhoea, salmonellosis (food poisoning), typhoid, poliomyelitis and gastroenteritis are caused by cockroaches. Allergens like asthma are also linked to cockroach menace.

Treatment

Research indicates that cockroaches can survive even the nuclear disaster! No wonder, their extermination requires special treatment methods. An active ingredient in a Gel form is used to seal cockroach hideouts. Spray treatment is also used to debug the whole house.

Bedbugs Control

Microscopic dust mites are everywhere in the home - in our beds, clothing, furniture, book shelves and stuffed animals. For people with allergies or asthma, dust mites are a problem. Bedbugs are pest that thrive around human bedding. They live on human blood for survival. They have received their name from its close association with human bedding. They generally hide in the seam of the mattress and in the cracks of the bed and feed on the bed's occupants at night. If the population of bed bugs is very large it spreads in the entire house. The bedbugs may also hide in other pieces of furniture and cracks and clothing of travelers and visitors, bedding material and furniture.

Tips for Control

The treatment is done by spraying insecticide, especially in the seams of mattresses, beds and all other places infested by bedbugs. The bedbugs die on contact with the insecticide. It takes about 1/2 hour to treat a house of about 750 sq.ft. As the eggs of bedbugs are resistant to chemicals, this treatment is repeated within a fortnight to treat the hatchlings.

Lizard Control

Lizards are considered pest even when they actually are creepy cold blooded reptiles. While lizards are not directly responsible for any diseases, it leaves behind its droppings and eggs at completely unexpected places, such as between the clothes in our closets; leading to foul smell. Not only is this unhygienic but also harmful when it drops in food. Also, kids and many adults are afraid of them, it is a nuisance & it is also considered bad omen in Indian Homes.

What We Do For You

Lizards generally come out in evening or at night. Since lizards are slimy creatures, they can enter through cracks of windows and small gaps along doors or any other holes in the house. Some people seal these cracks to stop the lizards from entering. However, all these methods and techniques prove to be temporary ways, Lizards do find their way after a few days.

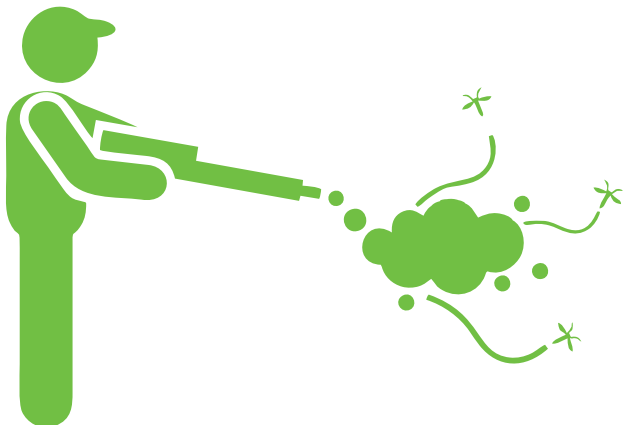

Pest Cure Incorporation offers several solutions to control Lizard infestation in your house, office or any other property. The most efficient solution is Aerial Spray, while using Third Generation chemicals to control the pest.
